Hi R- the events this Saturday at the Gov's House, as hosted by the First Family, are historic. We do not believe they've ever been done before as Todd gathers former First Ladies for their tea... plus we invited former First Ladies and their (grown) children to revisit the mansion for the Statehood Celebration.
Alaskans would like to know of this, I'm sure, so profiling it and/or allowing a photo op of these wonderful elderly Alaskan women as they gather here on Saturday would be great for historical reasons and for today's public to witness.
Statehood celebration folks can shed more light on this and help you write a presser on it, as can historians in Juneau who can appreciate this unprecedented event... and please remind Alaskans that it is a pleasure and honor for the current First Family to host this. We'll all be here except our son who is away training in the Mojave Desert with his Styker Brigade before their Sept deployment to Iraq.
An ironic mention needs to include the fact that Todd will have just returned from his blue collar Slope job to host the First Ladies Tea. (Humor helps in these type of announcements). Thanks!
(Kris, if u think of others who can help contribute to this presser pls let Rosanne know so it can be cranked out today, then press can follow up.)

MESSAGE:

I just wanted to take a moment and thank you for the work you've done for the average alaskan family. In my lifespan I have seen many politicians and most I can't say much for. I finally have seen what a good person can do in a point of power and its refreshing to me. You have done more for the people in your short tenure than most will do in lifetime. You should feel commendable for that. I only fear that we will lose you to a higher level of government before your potential is met in alaska. I'm sure you meet great opposition from many of your peirs for your actions. Unfortunately many live in a tunnel vision. Seeing the future through the present is the Key! I have to say that until you reached office I had never voted because my ideals would never let me vote for the lesser of two evils. Since you've reached the seat in the capital I've become much more active in our greatest right. You have given the people of alaska a voice and shown big business that you will not bully the weak

SO, in a nutshell I say Thank You! As honestly as anyone can.

Hi R- the events this Saturday at the Gov's House, as hosted by the First Family, are historic. We do not believe they've ever been done before as Todd gathers former First Ladies for their tea... plus we invited former First Ladies and their (grown) children to revisit the mansion for the Statehood Celebration.

Alaskans would like to know of this, I'm sure, so profiling it and/or allowing a photo op of these wonderful elderly Alaskan women as they gather here on Saturday would be great for historical reasons and for today's public to witness.

Statehood celebration folks can shed more light on this and help you write a presser on it, as can historians in Juneau who can appreciate this unprecedented event... and please remind Alaskans that it is a pleasure and honor for the current First Family to host this. We'll all be here except our son who is away training in the Mojave Desert with his Styker Brigade before their Sept deployment to Iraq.

An ironic mention needs to include the fact that Todd will have just returned from his blue collar Slope job to host the First Ladies Tea. (Humor helps in these type of announcements). Thanks!

Sharon- remember that I do desire to speak with reporters instead of seeing (like this morning) that I waa "unavailable for comment". I was on the flight for only 1.5 hrs so people know I could have spoken to Wesley before or after the flt, had I known he had called, thus the false assumption will be that I again avoided prese. Pls let me know when reporters call on this so I can respond thanks.

Also, there csn't be any suggestion that I hesitate re: their investigation. The critics would love to believe I don't want want one so they can continue to untruthfully claim that I'm hiding something.

S- does ktuu know that the wooten divorce was quite awhile ago... despite their insistence everytime they report on this that "she fired monegan while the trooper was going through a divorce with her sister"? Sheeesh, they haven't gotten it right yet. And even their forgetfulness that we offered WM another job to better utilize his strengths... it's just so frustrating that they're playing right into lyda and hollis' hands., and vice versa.

I prefer speaking to these reporters who want comments on the issue. I invite the investigation but it's obvious we could get to the bottom of it all if leggies and reporters would just ASK me further questions instead of spending $100g on a fishing expedition.

Honorable Governor Sarah Palin,

I am writing tonight to say that this scandal for the last two weeks has really angered me. Not so much your department as the feeding frenzy of the news media. It has become national and I am so sorry for Alaska. Why does the legislature think they need an investigation when they KNOW that Department heads serve at the pleasure of the governor? What more is there to say? NOTHING REALLY.

I am hoping your husband will stay out of the roll of anything to do with your office. I realize he csn sdvise you but he was not elected to anything so I assume he does not need to talk to any of your employees, and I'm not sure he even did, this could all been avoided if his nsme had not surfaced.

You have brought ethics and honesty to our state and I sincerely hope this type of scandal never surface again

Sincerely,

An Alaskan of 66 years

Russ and I spoke today with representatives of Governor Schweizer, vice chair of the Natural Resources Committee, and NGA staff concerning themes and priorities for the committee.

Subject to each of us obtaining guidance from our respective governors, we tentatively identified energy infrastructure as our major theme. In turn, this issue would be divided into the following components:

- Natural gas and oil pipelines
- Transmission lines
- National electricity grid, including smart meters and storage
- Funding of infrastructure, including public-private partnerships

This theme extrapolates from the NGA chair's emphasis on infrastructure generally. In addition, Russ and I figured that it would be a good way to marshal additional bipartisan support for an Alaska gas pipeline to the lower 48.

Before proceeding further, it would be helpful for us to know whether the foregoing makes sense to you. Thanks.

AGIA Update

Alaska stands poised and ready to provide critical relief to fellow Alaskans and to Americans during this t need. We are proud to say that we have come so far toward finally getting Alaska's valuable natural gas way that protects the state's interests and benefits all Alaskans.

The Alaska State Legislature is currently debating whether to approve TransCanada Alaska for the state natural gas pipeline. Legislators have listened to hundreds of hours of thoughtful discussion from consult people all over Alaska who deeply care about the state's future, and I want to thank them for conducting

Over the course of a year, AGIA has proven to be exactly what the State of Alaska needs. For the first time ever, we now have a committed partner who is willing to provide exactly what Alaska demands for her citizens and with an enforceable timeline that exceeds our expectations.

The Alaska Gasline Induce

This is an exciting time for Alaskans. And we look forward to moving together as a team, as Americans look north to the future for assistance.

In an effort to better serve Alaskans, my administration made some positive changes to the summer 200 report to you that those changes have resulted in increases in traffic by 6 percent overall this year from M some communities the increases were substantial, like Sitka (27 percent increase for both passengers a (32 percent for passengers and 22 percent for vehicles) and Prince Rupert (25 percent for passengers a vehicles.) We've been receiving positive comments from many communities, and we'll continue to work t transportation needs of all Alaskans.

We're also excited about changes that hav our ferries, the Aurora. Before returning to summer, the Aurora was outfitted with com power and speed control systems that will

And finally, to help residents and visitors b

Adding a little bit of activity to each day is so important to our overall physical and mental health. Alaskans did just that when more than 2,800 of them signed up to compete in the National President's Challenge, a program that required people to get 30 minutes of exercise for at least five days a week for a six-week period. I'm proud to tell you that Alaska had a first-place finish and in July, U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Secretary Mike Leavitt presented the National President's Challenge Award to Alaska for having the highest participation rate in the nation based on population. We are definitely moving in the right direction, and that's great news for our state.

Alaska is strengthened by people with an entrepreneurial spirit, and small firm owners are making a major contribution to our state economy. That's why I'm pleased to tell you that I was able to sign into law legislation my administration put forward to reduce business license fees. House Bill 111 decreases the fee for business licenses from $100 to $50 and will take effect October 1, 2009, when the sale of 2010 licenses begins.

[x] Fees Reduced

Back in April, I encouraged state employees to help our men and women in uniform by donating cell phones which could be shipped overseas via a program called Cell Phones for Soldiers. Now, several months later, the Department of Administration has collected 271 used state and personal cell phones. This will mean 271 hours of talk time for soldiers abroad, since each phone is recycled in exchange for a one-hour calling card. In July, the Department of Administration shipped two boxes (52 pounds) of cell phones out of Juneau. The department is also working with individual Alaskans who are interested in donating independently. For more information, contact Vern Jones, Director of the Division of General Services, at Vern.Jones@alaska.gov.

I am encouraged to share with you that tobacco use in Alaska has declined more than 20 percent overall, according to the state's Behavioral Risk Factor Surveillance Survey for 2007. The reduction equals more than 27,000 fewer smokers since 1996.

There is also a significant reduction in Alaska Native high school smokers, from 62 percent in 1995 to 44 percent in 2003 to 32 percent in 2007 (Youth Risk Behavior Survey). Smoking is also down significantly among women – from 24.2 percent in 1996 to 16.9 percent in 2007 (national prevalence is 18.4 percent). The steepest decline is among adults age 40–59, from 28.7 percent in 1996 to 21.8 percent in 2007.

[x] Alaska Smoking Rate Drops

The drop can be attributed to a sustained comprehensive tobacco prevention program, including tax increases, clean indoor air policies, media, community programs and the Alaska Tobacco Quit Line.

Alaskans enjoyed great music, food and community as my Cabinet and I served more than 11,000 of our wonderful citizens at the Governor's Annual Picnics in Wasilla, Anchorage and Fairbanks in July. I truly enjoy these picnics and the opportunity to meet Alaskans in a fun and informal setting, and want to thank the many sponsors and volunteers who did such a great job ensuring they were a

Thanks,

Governor,

I think today went fairly well, all in all, and would like a chance to get csught up before tomorrow gets rolling. Is there any chance you are going to be back by the office? If not, would you mind if Kelly, Nizich, and I stop by the residence this evening? We could all use a few minutes.

Joe

Governor - We hava been asked to do a PSA Taping for the Alaska Food Bank. We have the script ready and the video guys had a great idea of setting something up to tape at the house – i.a. It would be e great visual to heve you carry in a paper bag as you read the script – kind of like you are coming homa with tha groceries. It would be a great visual for the TV version.

I know we heva two events at the house tomorrow – so this could be set up for Thursday or Friday around tha lunch hour. Thanks, Jenice

Subject: NGA/Resource Committee Priorities

Russ and I spoke today with representatives of Governor Schweizer, vice chair of the Natural Resources Committee, and NGA staff concerning themes and priorities for the committee.

Subject to each of us obtaining guidance from our respective governors, we tentatively identified energy infrastructure as our major theme. In turn, this issue would be divided into the following components:

- Natural gas and oil pipelines
- Transmission lines
- National electricity grid, including smart meters and storage
- Funding of infrastructure, including public-private partnerships

This theme extrapolates from the NGA chair's emphasis on infrastructure generally. In addition, Russ and I figured that it would be a good way to marshal additional bipartisan support for an Alaska gas pipeline to the lower 48.

Before proceeding further, it would be helpful for us to know whether the foregoing makes sense to you. Thanks.

Its cool. I'll get to the store at some point here for that. Mainly, just don't want the kids to have too much sugar/white carb stuff.
